

Bangladesh:

January 30, 2012: One Health approach

Fighting against wide-ranging contagious viruses, the authorities are finally strategizing on a unique platform taking all living creatures into equation to wage a common war. [more]

India:

February 02, 2012: A large number of these scavenger birds have died in many parts of Jharkhand due to toxic pesticides and fertilizers

Every day hundreds of crows have been seen dead in different districts across the state. The most affected regions are Ranchi, Jamshedpur, Chaibasa (Kolhan), Saraikela, Khoonti, Goddha, Sahibganj, and Jamtada. [more]

January 28, 2012: Bird flu breaks out in parts of NE

Outbreak of bird flu or avian influenza hit the ICAR complex in Agartala on Thursday prompting the authorities to cull about 2,000 ducks and chickens. The outbreak also forced authorities in neighbouring Barak Valley areas to take precautionary measure. [more]

January 28, 2012: Deshmukh reviews bird flu situation

In view of the increasing number of deaths of crows in Gondia district, guardian minister Anil Deshmukh reviewed the situation of bird flu epidemic in the district, particularly in Tiroda and Sadak Arjuni tehsils during his visit to Gondia. [more]

January 28, 2012: Bird flu in Tripura, Culling begins

Bird flu has resurfaced in Tripura barely within a month of declaring the country free from the disease and culling has started in villages within a 3-km radius... [more]

January 28, 2012: Highly pathogenic avian influenza event is continuing. Follow-up report No. 03 to OIE

ICAR (Indian Council of Agricultural Research) Research complex poultry farm is affected in West Tripura. Event is continuing. [more]

Pakistan:

January 29, 2012: Last bird flu case reported in July 2008

The Scientific authorities at the Pakistan Agricultural Research Council (PARC)'s National Reference Laboratory for Poultry Diseases (NRLPD) has carried out detailed investigation ... [more]

Sri Lanka:

February 02, 2012: No bird flu threat in Sri Lanka

The Department of Animal Production and Health on Thursday confirmed that Sri Lanka is not affected with bird flu despite earlier warning after a number of fowl died of a similar infection. [more]

February 01, 2012: Suspected avian flu case in Sri Lanka

The Department of Animal Production and Health has confirmed that the fowl deaths were due to Avian Influenza caused by a strain less lethal than the potentially deadly H5N1 strain. [more]